Munition Ships To Be Given Protection

Washington, March 12.—An armed guard "for the protection of vessels and lives of persons aboard will be placed on all American merchant ships sailing through Germany's barred area, the state department today notified all foreign diplomats in this city.

The following statement was presented to the foreign diplomats "for their information."

"In view of the announcement of the Imperial German government on January 31, 1917, that all ships, those of neutrals included, met with in certain zones of the high seas, would be sunk without any precautions being taken for the safety of the persons on board and without the exercise of visit and search, the government of the United States has determined to place upon all American merchant vessels sailing through the barred areas an armed guard for the protection of the vessels and the lives of the persons on board.

The official notice will serve to warn submarines of the allied powers as to America's intentions. British undersea boats, however, are understood to be operated only under convoy, hence there is little likelihood that the armed ships will make mistakes as to recognizing the nationality of submarines.

The state department gave out the copy of this statement shortly after Secretary Lansing had conferred at the White House with President Wilson.

THE "ARMED GUARD" WILL BE AMERICAN NAVY GUNNERS.

THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT SHOWS TOO, THAT IT IS THE INTENTION OF THE GOVERNMENT TO ARM NOT ONLY PASSENGER STEAMERS, BUT ALSO TO PROVIDE GUNS AND NAVY GUNNERS FOR MUNITION SHIPS.

The statement to the foreign diplomats cleared up definitely the question of whether navy gunners would be used.

The state department holds that the presence of these men aboard will not give the vessels the status of war ships.

The vessel becomes a warship only when used definitely for that purpose the department rules.

The state department held that

BIG GUNS ON LINER TO RESIST U-BOATS

Defensive gun on bow of the French liner Rochambeau.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—The French liner Rochambeau, armed fore and aft, can clear from the port of New York, it was officially ruled today. This is the first case in which the government has been called to pass upon merchant ships armed fore and aft.

Shortly after the war started and German submarines became active, the White Star liner Adriatic came here with a bow gun as well as one astern. The state department took up the matter and let it be known that only stern guns would be considered under sea warfare had been declared by Germany then.

The treasury department was notified of the two guns on the Rochambeau as soon as the neutrality inspectors had made their report on her errand from Bordeaux.

The stern gun is the 77-millimetre rifle she has carried since all the French and British liners were equipped with guns. The bow gun is a new 90-millimetre piece, or approximately 5-inch, capable of firing six shells a minute. With it and the stern gun the liner could keep her course and give battle to a submarine from any quarter, whereas before she would have been forced to turn tail to a U-boat to bring her stern rifle into play.

GERMAN EMPIRE IS CLOSE TO BANKRUPTCY, SAY AMERICANS

Stone Remains Head Of The Foreign Relations Committee

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Senator William J. Stone, criticized as one of the "wild men" who succeeded in blocking the president's "armed neutrality" bill during the closing hours of the last session, succeeded himself as chairman of the foreign relations committee.

The list of new committee assignments, announced today by the steering committee, shows Stone still heading the senate's most important subordinate branch. His re-appointment, despite widespread criticism that some other man should replace him, in view of Stone's failure to support the president at a critical time, had been forecast on the belief that "senatorial courtesy" and "senatorial precedent" was too strong to be disregarded. Among other committee assignments agreed upon were Senator Thomas, Democrat, succeeds ex-Senator O'Gorman on the foreign relations committee. Senators Fall and Knox fill two Republican vacancies on the same committee.

In the new congress, beginning with the extra session, Democrats will preside over fifty-four senate committees and Republicans over 30. This is a gain of one for the Republicans over last year.

LABORING MEN IN SESSION TO DETERMINE LABOR'S PART IN WAR PREPAREDNESS

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Representatives of two million laboring men gathered in executive session here today to determine what shall be labor's part in preparedness for war.

The meeting was opened by President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, who addressed the delegates—representing every national and international labor organization—on the duties of the American workingman to the government in times of strife.

"Peace was the keynote of the meeting—not the kind of peace to prohibit war, but peace between labor and government if hostilities come. The sessions are being held behind closed doors in the Federation of labor building.

The Gompers' speech, which was extemporaneous, was not made public.

The railway brotherhood heads are due here tomorrow morning. It is expected the conference will adopt resolutions appointing a committee with authority to map out labor's course in the event of war. And labor will stand by the decision. The meeting, delegates believed, will end tomorrow or Wednesday.

PROPERTY HOLDERS ENTITLED TO DAMAGES

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Property holders are entitled to compensation for water rights affected adversely by construction of government dams in tributaries, the supreme court held today in the case of W. R. Cress and Achilles Kelly, property holders in Kentucky on tributaries of the Cumberland and Kentucky rivers. Cress and Kelly recovered damages in a lower court for flooded land and damaged water rights. This was affirmed by the supreme court.

Galveston, Texas, March 12.—Almost constant receipt of "S. O. S." wireless calls and the glare of burning ships struck by torpedoes from German submarines, combined to make most eventful the voyage of the Harrison liner Professor, which arrived here from England today.

Captain Sam Bass said his vessel steamed out of the Mersey, February 2, and that within a few hours he began receiving calls for help and seeing torpedoed ships sink. Also that night, he said, he saw a big oil tanker torpedoed off his port bow. The tanker caught fire and light-

GERMANY'S SITUATION

Members of Ambassador Gerard's party, arriving at Havana today were authority for these statements as to Germany's present situation:

Food is very scarce; infants and aged persons are particularly susceptible to lack of proper nourishment and their mortality is increasing. Germany hopes her present supplies of food will eke out until this year's harvest. But this year's harvest promises only a fair crop.

Insufficiency of nitrates and metals is interfering with the output of munitions.

Confiscation of private property to an extent at least has been considered by the government; either this will be necessary or Germany must repudiate her war debts.

The empire is close to bankruptcy and this is one of the most ominous signs of possible breakdown.

Havana, March 12.—By nightfall James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Berlin will devoutly rejoice in once more treading United States soil. It has been a long, long way from Berlin to Washington—nearly six thousand miles in the route traversed by the former envoy—and until the very last moment it was a journey filled with apprehension; a journey that came after wearing days of Maisons Champagne during the night.

Washington In Throes Of St. Car Strike

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Washington is today in the throes of its long threatened street car strike. The men were to have acted March 5, but on a patriotic appeal, postponed their action until after the inauguration.

Following failure of efforts by Secretary of Labor Wilson to bring officials of the Washington Railway and Electric Company and one thousand of its men to terms, the latter struck at 2:30 a. m. The strike affects sixteen of the capital's most important traction arteries.

Company officials immediately put to work five hundred strike-breakers imported from Philadelphia, New York and Baltimore. The Capital Traction Company met the men's demands.

The National Amalgamated Association, which conducted the strikes in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston and other big cities, is behind the local strike.

Baroness von Puttkamer.

Coinciding with the renewal of Germany's ruthless U-boat warfare, the Baroness von Puttkamer, a very well known German writer of lyrics, who in the past has been noted for produced an impassioned poem entitled "The Hymn of the Submarine," in which she extols the virtues of her country's undersea craft and justifies their use in the present crisis.

Sacramento, Cal., March 12.—Hiram Johnson announced today that he will resign as governor next Thursday.

Paris, March 12.—"Further gains" were reported by the war office statement today as achieved by trench forces in the region of Maisons Champagne during the night.

ALLEGED BOMBMAKER ARRESTED

New York, March 12.—John Hubert, said to be the man known as "Karl", who made bombs in the hotel room of Fritz Kolb in Hoboken, was arrested at Broad and Wall streets by Hoboken and New York detectives this afternoon.

Hubert was indicted secretly Friday, along with Fritz Kolb and Hans Schwartz, German chemists, who were arrested last Tuesday following the finding of a bomb making plant in the Commercial hotel opposite the German steamship piers in Hoboken. The charge against the men is that of having explosives in their possession "with intent". Detectives are probing reports that the men planned to blow up the munitions stored on Black Tom peninsula.

Detectives finally located Hubert today and followed him to the financial district. He put up loud protests when they stopped him and appealed to the crowd which soon collected.

He was rushed to the police headquarters where he was examined this afternoon by Deputy Commissioner Seull and Captain Tunney, who said they would call in federal agents. They believe "Karl", who was described as the bomb maker by Kolb, may furnish federal agents valuable information.

Ship Employees May Strike

New York, March 12.—Indications that the two thousand men employed by the American Line on its passenger and freight ships may go on strike, very shortly, were apparent here today when the Atlantic district of the International Seamen's Union of America, declined to sign union crews for the American line ships.

Gustav A. Braun, head of the district, was ordered off the line of the district after the Manchurian, of the Atlantic Transport Line had signed a crew of non-union seamen when her crew struck for a 75 per cent wage bonus before starting through the submarine zone.

DECISION IN EIGHT HOUR LAW WITHHELD

Washington, D. C., March 12.—The supreme court decision in the Adamson eight hour law case again failed to materialize today.

PROFESSOR STRICKEN

Bloomington, Ind., March 12.—Judge E. G. Hogate, 65, for fifteen years dean of the Indiana University Law School and Republican candidate for governor in 1900, was stricken with paralysis in his class room today and his death is expected momentarily.

London, March 12.—General Frederick Stanley Maude, in command of the Entente forces in Mesopotamia, telegraphed yesterday the welcome news for the British of the occupation yesterday morning of the city of Bagdad, the chief Turkish city in Mesopotamia and formerly the capital of the empire of the Caliphs.

The fall of Bagdad, besides ending German hopes of Near Eastern dominion based on a Berlin-Bagdad railway, will reverberate throughout the Mohammedan empires and, it is believed, will more than rehabilitate British prestige in the East, damaged by the earlier loss of Kut-El-Amara.

The loss of Bagdad is a grave blow to the Turks. Bagdad has been the base for all Turkish operations in Persia.

British troops achieved a brilliant victory at Bagdad, according to details announced in the house of commons today by Chancellor of the Exchequer Bonar Law. He said he understood that two-thirds of the enemy's total of artillery had either been captured or had been thrown into the Tigris by the retreating Turks.

"Bagdad's fall is the sequel of a series of brilliant performances," Bonar Law asserted. "General Maude's troops pursued the enemy 110 miles in fifteen days, thrice crossing the Tigris."

London, March 12.—Mosul is the next objective of General Maude's victorious British forces in Mesopotamia.

Mesopotamia is now encircled by three great forces of Entente troops, whose lines are tightening and driving the Turks further toward the tip of Ahia embraced in Anatolia.

"These forces are first, General Maude's victorious column which has taken Kut-El-Amara and now Bagdad—and is still advancing; second, the British force advancing along the coast line of the Mediterranean toward Jerusalem; third, the Russian forces across Persia toward the Turkish flank and rear."

A fourth of Russians from which little has been heard recently, is around Mosul still farther to the rear of the Turks.

Military experts today hailed the fall of Bagdad as a tremendous blow at Turkish prestige and one likely to have far-reaching effect in the near East. The capture of the city likewise is the final blow inflicted in Berlin's ambitious plans for a Berlin to Bagdad railway, which would connect Germany with Asia.

To Search For Explosives On German Ships

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12.—In the face of threats of being thrown overboard by the commanders of the interned German boats in the navy yard here, officials, acting under the direction of the navy department at Washington, today will search the Prinz Eitel Friedrich and Kronprinz Wilhelm to investigate reports that munitions of war have been smuggled aboard. This act may develop new complications between this country and Germany. "This government has not searched an interned boat before, but has taken the word of the commanders that there are no explosives on their vessels."

It shells are discovered on the boats, officials believe seizure will follow. No explosives found will be removed until definite word is received from Washington.

Funds were received from many larger cities in the state to be applied to care for the destitute.

Revision of the death list at noon showed several duplications in former lists and brought the total number of dead in the city and vicinity to twenty. Russell McLean, 8, was the only new death reported today. He succumbed to injuries. Many are still missing, however; and it is believed the death list will grow as the ruins are cleared up. ## Trinity Meetings Will Be Moved To Auditorium; Interest Growing

(By Louise Griswold)

That personal appearance, mental equipment and political power are not sufficient to admit a man to the kingdom of heaven was brought out by Rev. Charles Laughlin, in his sermon, "A Bewildered Man," delivered at Trinity M. E. church last night.

This service began, the third week of revival meetings at Trinity, and the meetings from now on will be held in the church auditorium, instead of in the basement.

Every evening this week except Saturday Rev. Laughlin will preach. Monday night will be ladies' night; Tuesday night, family night, when entire families are urged to turn out and sit together; Wednesday will be men's night; Friday night will be Sunday school night. Rev. C. Lloyd Streeker, pastor of Trinity, urged that this week be made everybody's week and that every night be everybody's night.

Rev. Laughlin in his sermon said he had sometimes thought that Paul did not get into the Sanhedrin, of which Nicodemus was a member, because he was not good looking enough. Nicodemus came to Christ asking what he should do to be admitted to the kingdom. He was a ruler of the Jews, knew the law and the prophets and obeyed them, yet all these requisites did not make him a power like Paul. He had grounds for feeling that he could talk on religion, continued Rev. Laughlin, "but this only shows that a man may have blocks and blocks and blocks of religious theory and not a bit of religious life."

Rev. Laughlin told of a Buddhist priest who when asked to write down the most profound thought in his religion, wrote "be good, do good, think good," but this lacked the spirit of God. "It is not the outward ceremony, but the real service of the heart, which counts," he declared.

Warning As To Our Waning Vitality

(By Lee Herbert Smith, M. D.)

In urging upon the country the observance of last Dec. 6 as "Medical Examination Day," the Life Extension Institute issued a circular in which it called attention to the reasons why every man should take stock of his physical condition just as frequently as he takes stock of his financial condition, thereby learning his weak spots and taking measures to repair them before it is too late.

In the spring is the best time to take stock of one's condition. If the blood is thin and watery, face pale or pimply, generally weak, tired and listless, one should take a spring tonic. One that will do the spring housecleaning, an old-fashioned herbal remedy that was used by everybody nearly 50 years ago is still safe and sane because it contains no alcohol or narcotic. It is made up of blood root, Golden Seal root, Oregon Grape root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark—extracted with glycerine and made into liquid or tablets. This blood tonic was first put out by Dr. Pierce in ready-to-use form and since then has been sold by millions of bottles as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If druggists does not keep this in tablet form, send $1.00 to Doctor V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Kidney disease carries away a large percentage of our people. What is to be done? The answer is easy. Eat less meat, eat coarse, plain food, with plenty of vegetables, drink plenty of water between meals, and take an uric acid solvent after meals for awhile, such as Anuric (double strength), obtainable at almost any drug store. It was first discovered by Dr. Pierce. Most every one troubled with uric acid finds that Anuric dissolves the uric acid as hot water does sugar.

But she was more a daughter to him than a wife. Slowly he realized his mistaken marriage. Even more pointedly did he feel it when the handsome Easterner came to the mountains. There he was an invalid, with a young, fascinating wife. There was this, clean-cut lawyer with a helpless invalid.

Quite naturally, did youth attract youth, and the fires of love kindle in the breasts of both. What was each to do? Sacred to the marriage tie, true to their pact, it took powerful reserve to hold back their love.

But love did find a way, an unselfish, honorable way, one, which you yourself will sympathize with, when you see this heart pulling drama which will hold your interest and attention until the final "fade-out."

DR. EDWARD WALSH HURT IN CINCINNATI CYCLONE

Dr. Edward Walsh, well known veterinary surgeon at Otway, was among the persons in the path of the cyclone that swept Hyde Park, Mt. Lookout, Delta, Red Bank and other eastern suburbs of Cincinnati early Sunday evening.

Dr. Walsh was in a home occupied by his uncle, Matthew McCarty, which collapsed during the storm. Mr. McCarty and Dr. Walsh and Mr. McCarty's three-year-old son, James Matthew McCarty, were caught beneath the debris and Mr. McCarty was badly hurt, his son was killed outright and Dr. Walsh was badly injured.

Mr. McCarty was taken to General Hospital, Cincinnati. It was reported that Dr. Walsh had a leg broken, but relatives here and in Otway learned Monday morning that his injuries were not as serious as first reported.

Dr. Walsh left Otway Sunday afternoon for Cincinnati and had only been in McCarty's home on Griest avenue near Tweed, a short time when that section was swept by a cyclone that exacted several lives and wrought untold property damage.

Dr. Walsh is about 30 years old and is a son of George Walsh, of Otway and is a cousin of Drs. C. E. and J. R. Walsh, well known local dentists.

Relative to the storm and the tragic death of James Matthew McCarty, aged 3, the Cincinnati Enquirer Monday said:

"The youngest victim of the storm's fury was James Matthew McCarty, 3 years old, Griest and Tweed avenues, who was caught with his father in the debris which was their home before the tornado's visit. James Matthew McCarty, Sr., 45 years old, made a futile effort to save his son. He was caught in the wreckage and taken to the hospital suffering with severe injuries. The lad was taken from the home later by patrolmen.

"With him in the building when the storm struck were his father and mother, and five brothers and sisters—Elizabeth, 14 years old; John, 11 years old; Arthur, 10 years old; Catherine, 6 years old, and Rose Mary, 1 year old—and an uncle, Luke Smith, 45 years old. Each of these received minor injuries."

Luke Finn Among Victims

Luke Finn, aged 39, who had his skull crushed when he was caught beneath the wreckage of his home when it was demolished by the cyclone that swept the eastern part of Cincinnati Sunday evening, formerly resided at McCulloch, Scioto county. He was removed to the General Hospital in Cincinnati.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

New York, March 12.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today says: 30 out of the news which Wall street had before it today tended further to clarify both the domestic and international situations. The removal of the uncertainties with which securities, financial and commercial circles have had to contend in recent months would be distinctly a bullish influence.

If the armings of American merchantmen to it is today the case is east with the statement issued today by the state department. All that remains now is for Germany to cast the glove.

The stock market does not as yet, however, reflect fully this more cheering state affairs. The public has been too long away from the trading that it has become timid from habit, so as to speak.

Today's trading was almost wholly professional. What activity there was appeared to be of a realizing nature, and prices were soft in consequence. The feature was, of course, the railroad department where advances ranged from one to two points or more. The impulse behind this movement was the attitude of labor in the railroad situation with the assurance that no matter what happens there will be no railroad strike while the present crisis lasts.

The general list was weak and trading was quiet in the afternoon.

New York, March 12.—With the exception of rail issues, stocks were erratic and in some instances rather weak on the stock exchange today. Strength at the opening failed to last.

Missouri Pacific sold up 1/4 to 30 1/2 and Wheeling and Lake Erie at 18 1/2. May opened down 1/2 and last 3/4, going to 18 1/2; state street, 1/2; New Haven advanced 1/4 point, selling at 4 1/2. C. and O. advanced nearly two points to 50 1/2. United States Steel, after a slight advance on the opening, dropped back, touching 11 1/2. American Smelting, after touching a high mark of 10 1/2, sold at 10 1/2.

The markets closed irregular.

regardless of whether or not secret orders were issued to the gunners, armed merchant ships could not be classed as warships. Though Germany has claimed that Great Britain's secret orders made her armed ships actual war vessels.

While the state department was making this definite announcement, presumably at the direction of President Wilson, the navy department was refusing any details as to its plans. American inventive genius, it is known, however, has been called upon to give aid to American ships venturing forth soon to go through the barred zone.

United States inventors, including the electrical wizard, Thomas A. Edison, are trying to design methods of sheltering merchantmen from all German undersea boats. These new inventions will be installed in the armed vessels, provided they meet with government approval.

What the plans are will be withheld for military reasons, but it is admitted, a perfected smoke screen may be one means employed. British ships now use such a device—artificial smoke from chemicals—that hides a vessel behind an impenetrable screen.

Electric methods of detecting submarines, improving upon the present microphone attachments may be invented. But in keeping with the administration's plan of secrecy no details will be announced lest German inventors be placed at work to overcome the American advantage.

The work of arming merchantmen should occupy only a few more days and then American commerce will be freed from the bonds that have kept it shivering in American harbors.

German Empire

of long drawn out tension in Berlin.

The ambassador and his embassy party expected to leave Havana today. Gerard will report to President Wilson at the earliest possible moment. Until he has thus personally detailed the circumstances of those trying days in Berlin, and given the chief magistrate the impressions he has formed as to Germany's purpose, her present situation and her future aims, he will remain silent.

The only public expression which the former ambassador permitted himself to make on his arrival here was that he had no knowledge of Foreign Secretary Zimmerman's plot to align Germany with Mexico and Japan until word of that conspiracy reached the Infanta Isabel by a wireless as she was enroute from Corunna, Spain, to Havana.

From others of the ambassadorial party, however, it was learned that the ambassador months ago advised the United States government of Germany's intrigues in Mexico.

It rests with President Wilson whether the full story of Gerard's life in Berlin and his impressions of American public. The envoy is known to have ready for submission to his chief a narrative of amazing details. It is possible these details may be the basis of further revelations of Germany's machinations against America.

But because of the unbearable, ceaseless activity of spies in Germany, not a paper of the American embassy's archives in Berlin now remains. The ambassador himself burned every bit of paper in the building.

Germany's food situation is serious, in the belief of all the returning Americans. The Teutons greatly lack potatoes, fats, sugar, and other basic food staples. But everyone who had lived in Berlin agreed that Germany would probably be able to eke out an existence through this summer on her present supplies of food. Then she will have to depend on this year's crops. And those crops have now only a fair promise of sufficiency.

The mortality of babies and of aged people has increased tremendously in Germany, due to insufficient food and lack of proper medical attention, according to the returning Americans.

Shortage of metals and nitrates is now interfering with Germany's manufacture of munitions, according to members of the Gerard party. Germany is being raked with a fine toothed comb for metals and more metals.

The latest requisitioning determined upon by the government was as to lead. Every ounce is being taken. The pewter tools from beer steins have gone. So have the leaden pipes to church organs.

It is in the big German cities that the food shortage is most serious. In the smaller cities the lack is not quite so apparent. For instance, Dr. W. A. Haldy, a Cleveland, Ohio, physician, who was stationed with a Red Cross unit in a hospital, located in a town of ten thousand, insisted he had no trouble in getting plenty to eat.

The annoyances to which Gerard was forced to submit before he obtained permission of German officialdom to leave Berlin, were not only anticipated, in part, by Gerard himself, but by Washington.

It was learned that the ambassador was specifically instructed by the state department to exercise great care and not to let petty personal insults figure in complicating the already delicate situation aroused by the diplomatic break.

Full confirmation of how passports were withheld from Americans pending the exercise of pressure on Gerard to sign a new treaty guaranteeing safety of German ships in American harbors, was given by the returning Americans.

They re-told, with admiration, Gerard's firm stand and his refusal thus to acquiesce in Germany's scheme.

Those were trying days and when at last the German government suddenly changed front and issued passports permitting departure of Gerard and his party, every one in that party looked forward and anxiously to setting foot on some soil other than German. But when the time came for embarkation from Corunna, fears and anxieties again assailed the party.

It became known that Gerard had been warned by a German friend, before he left Berlin, not to take passage for America. He was told a German submarine would surely torpedo the boat carrying him. That warning gave passengers on the Infanta Isabel days and nights of something approaching terror.

Two days out from Corunna, with passengers and crew panicky and nervous, there began to be wild rumors of periscopes sighted near the Infanta. There was not a moment that was not filled with vague dread of unwarmed attack. But the "periscopes" turned out not to be periscopes. No submarines were sighted. The party relaxed its tension again.

Then just two days before Havana was reached, panic reigned again for a moment when a strange vessel was sighted. The stranger steamed rapidly toward the Infanta. It circled about the vessel cautiously and then, finally, changed her course and soon was lost on the horizon line. The vessel apparently was a British patrol boat.

Gerard is still tired and worn by his experience. His first word on reaching Havana was a request for further information as to the German plot revealed in Foreign Secretary Zimmerman's letter. The wireless had told him only the briefest outline. Gerard said he had no plans for the future, aside from looking out for his personal affairs.

CYCLONE

Mrs. Asa Williamson, Mrs. Vera Higgins, William Lowry, John Nelis, Mrs. Archie Fletcher, Bernice Day, June Day, Ethel Day, Ernest Waterman, Price Shelton, Russell McLean, two small children of Ernest Gray, unidentified boy about ten.

Manufacturing plants were closed while the workmen aided three companies of militia and 100 special policemen in keeping guard and cleaning up the debris, strewn over a district two and a half miles wide and fifteen miles long, through the residence district of the city and on into a prosperous farming country.

Fifty physicians and nurses from neighboring towns took care of the wounded in improvised hospitals. Fifty were seriously injured and 100 or more slightly hurt. Branch emergency hospitals were established at the Elk's home and a fire station.

Martial law existed in the stricken district. No one was permitted to pass through except on passes from the mayor, or militia officers.

Several reports of looting were received but no one was held by the police or troops.

Women and children in the hundreds of homeless families were taken care of by those more fortunate, while the men gathered around little camp fires on street corners watching what was left of their property and waiting for the break of day to renew their hunt for the missing.

At the hospitals relatives aided the nurses and doctors in caring for the injured. Ruth Day, 18, who lost her three little sisters and a brother, and injured herself, sat beside the bedside of her mother during the long night, hoping to save the one other member of the family still alive.

The mother has little chance for recovery.

Greatest suffering was reported during the night. It was cold and no fires were allowed in the houses on account of danger of starting a conflagration. Lights were out and no water was procurable, as the water mains had burst.

Relief poured into the city from every quarter today. Most of the cities of the state offered aid. A relief committee was formed consisting of John W. Rodgers, New Castle; Wm. Goodrich, Winchester, brother of Governor Goodrich; H. S. Maddy of Muncie, Walter Chambers and George Elliott, both of New Castle.

The committee today sent out an appeal for cash donations. Hundreds of families, who lost practically everything, will need money to get back on their feet again, they stated.

J. Lab Watkins, mayor, lost everything but his clothes. His home was destroyed and a pocket-book containing $205 blown away.

The loss will be exceptionally heavy because few places carried cyclone insurance.

The storm broke without warning and was over like a flash, lasting from two seconds to a minute, according to various estimates. It was a typical Kansas twister with a long funnel shaped cloud which swept down from the northeast.

It struck the Indiana rolling mills first, leveling the large plant as if it had been raked with a dozen 42 centimetre guns. The better residence district of the city was next to be hit. Houses costing as high as $50,000 were a mass of ruins in an instant.

Miraculous escapes from death were reported when families, huddled in basements, had whole houses swept off over their heads. Houses were jammed, one against another and in one case a garage and automobile were set down in the middle of a home.

The storm continued through the city, striking the homes of the working men where most of the deaths were caused. Here a district half a mile wide and a mile long was swept clean. Not a house was left standing. That there were not more deaths was attributed to the fact that up until the time the storm broke, the day was pleasant and many families were downtown or out walking.

After leaving the city the storm destroyed many farms for a 12-mile stretch. Two farm hands lost their lives when a barn was blown down. Two small sons of Ernest Gray, a farmer, were killed.

Ora Smith was painting a barn door when it was blown off. He was carried along with the door about 200 yards and landed in a pond. He cannot recover.

Following the sweep of the storm, a terrific rain poured down for half an hour. Several fires started but the rain aided volunteer workers in extinguishing the blazes. Rescue work started immediately. Many were saved after they had been buried under the debris for half an hour or more. Searchers were attracted by their screams for aid.

Wild scenes followed in the wake of the disaster. One man with an ear torn off and with only a sheet wrapped around him ran through the city for an hour, fighting off any one who attempted to hold him. At last he was caught and taken to the hospital, where he was quieted down.

Wm. Lowrey was burned to death when he was caught in the wreck of his home and was unable to escape when the ruins caught fire. The rescuing party had nothing with which to fight the flames and not knowing a man was buried in the wreck, watched it burn. They soon smelled the burning flesh and his charred body was found.

When the storm broke a sister of Mrs. Elwood Lawson saw she would be unable to reach a house, so grabbed a tree and hung while the storm passed. It was the only tree in the block which was not blown down and she was not injured.

Washington, C. H., March 12.—Twenty families were made homeless, three persons were injured and $100,000 property damage was done by a cyclone which nearly destroyed the village of Bookwalter, 14 miles northwest of here last night. Two churches and a school house were entirely destroyed and many barns and houses unroofed. Livestock losses will aggregate thousands of dollars. A country church, half a mile from the village known as Wesley Chapel, one of the most historic structures of the county, was blown down.

3 DEAD; 50 HURT

Cincinnati, O., March 12.—Three persons dead and fifty injured is the toll, police figures today give of the tornado that swept over Cincinnati last night and struck as with a hammer blow the suburban residence districts of Mt. Lookout, Hyde Park, Red Bank, and East End.

One of those killed was Ohmer Glenn, 82, capitalist. His house collapsed, caught fire and was destroyed. His housekeeper, Miss Daisy Holmes, was seriously injured.

The other dead are: Matthew McCarty, killed in the wreck of his home and John Nelson, 40, market gardener, who slept in his wagon and was killed when the wind upset it.

About a dozen houses were completely destroyed. Scores were unroofed and partially wrecked.

Many families had miraculous escapes. The house occupied by George W. Snyder, his wife and son and by Charles Lamb and his wife, was turned into a pile of lumber in a second. Yet none of the occupants was more than bruised.

"We heard a sort of whistling and then the windows began falling into the rooms," said Snyder. "Then the whole house seemed to rock."

"The floor seemed to lift up. The roof flew off our heads. The furniture tumbled together. I thought it was all over with us. And then suddenly I found myself on top of a great heap of wood—all that was left of our home."

"I was surprised to notice I was alive. I looked around and was overjoyed to find my wife and son near me. We were saved by a miracle."

DAYTON ALSO HIT

Dayton, O., March 12.—Four people were injured and thousands of dollars in damage done by the tornado which swept out Sunday afternoon. The injured: Mr. and Mrs. William Ely, caught in the ruins when house was razed; neither is serious.

Allen Meyer, Brookville, crushed and lacerated by falling roof, at Miami Valley hospital here, in serious condition.

John Wyson of near Johnsonville, bruised and lacerated when These snapshots of new United States senators were made in Washington following the calling of the new upper house in extra session. Wolcott, Democrat, is from Delaware; King, Democrat, from Utah; Sutherland, Republican, from West Virginia; Calder, Republican, from New York; Jones, Democrat, from New Mexico, and Gerry, Democrat, from Rhode Island.

From 7 o'clock this morning to 3 o'clock this afternoon the Ohio river rose a foot, according to F. B. Winter, local river observer. The gauge at 7 o'clock showed 39 feet and at 3 o'clock this afternoon it showed 40 feet.

Local River Observer F. B. Winter Monday morning received the following message from Weather Forecaster W. C. Dev. eaux of Cincinnati:

"Unsettled over Upper Ohio Valley tonight and Tuesday. River at Portsmouth will rise slowly. The river is falling at Cincinnati, but is rising at all other points from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh."

The Ohio river is again rising slowly here after receding Sunday up to 6 o'clock last night when it began to again creep up slowly. The gauge at 7 o'clock Monday morning showed a stage of 39 feet against 39.6 at the same hour Sunday morning.

A rumor spread over the city Sunday that a cloudburst had occurred at Pittsburgh and the river would probably rise ten more feet here. Local River Observer F. B. Winter got busy yesterday as soon as he heard the rumor and he soon learned, he says, that it was without foundation. A cloudburst was also reported at Wheeling and Huntington, but failed to materialize.

It was reported that the cloudburst rumor started from the fact that an employee of Contractors Sheridan and Kirk, builders of the new dam just below the city received word Sunday to prepare for a four or five foot rise in the Ohio at this point.

The Greenwood will be down Tuesday for Cincinnati. The Courier passed up today for Poughkeepsie.

British Reach Part Of Teuton Main Defense

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, March 12.—Capture of Ires by British forces brings England's fighting men to the main German defense line between Loupart Wood and Achiet Le Petit. This latest victory achieved by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig's troops was cited today as an ideal illustration of the curious fighting on the Somme which has endured a brand new phase, with the beginning of the German retirement.

The once cozy village of Ires sat almost at the top of a slope leading to the plateau on which is Loupart Wood. There were quarries east and north of the village with sunken roads on all sides. It was this feature of the ground surrounding the town that made its defense by small units easy.

Here the Germans posted many defenders in groups of eight in charge of non-commissioned officers. They were armed with machine guns. Each group had orders to stick until specifically told to retire.

After the hurricane of bombardment, the British attacked from the west and south, converging their lines. They swept over the ground killing or taking prisoner every German in the pocket thus formed.

The fighting was crisp and sharp while it lasted.

American Vessels To Resume Sailings

New York, March 12.—An announcement posted today in the offices of the International Mercantile Marine here, carried the information that the American line passenger and freight vessels will resume sailings. No date for the resumption of business was given. It would be a violation of a request from the navy department to give such information.

The four passenger ships, the New York, Philadelphia, St. Paul and St. Louis already are fitted with superstructure and deck plates for the mounting of guns and they could be fitted in a short time.

The Finland and the Kronland, freight carrying vessels, will have to go through a longer process. They are newer vessels and never have had guns mounted aboard.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—German torpedoing of the Norwegian ship Storstad, may serve to halt Belgian relief work for ten million persons. Officials here are frankly discouraged at the tendency shown by the German commander in destroying this ship in the open lane designated by Germany herself as exempt from attack.

The Storstad was bound from Buenos Aires to Rotterdam.

London, March 12.—The two missing boat loads of survivors from the Norwegian steamer Storstad, torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine arrived safely in port on the Irish coast early today. Apparently this leaves no members of the crew unaccounted for. Torpedoing of the Storstad, in use as a Belgian relief ship, was announced Saturday.

Hundreds of homes were unroofed, almost one hundred houses razed and about 500 barns swept down by the tornado in its passage through Montgomery county. The tornado spent its last force over the west side of Dayton where it degenerated into the hardest rain in years. Streets were inundated and in the lower sections were impassable for several hours.

S. O. S. Call For Young Ladies

Wanted—Young ladies interested in the "human helpfulness" work of Portsmouth. The Bureau is prepared to put on a short three session training course in social work to meet the emergency caused by the illness of Miss Letta Adams, the relief worker, and Miss Margaret Purves, the tuberculosis nurse. "Both Miss Purves and Miss Adams have overworked and are sick simply because of their devotion to the work," said Mr. Wehrly. The large number of calls that we are getting both for relief and for nursing care, demand immediate attention. We will be able to care for the sickness and if we can get several young ladies who would be interested to spend an hour or two each day visiting certain families we can meet the relief problem.

This morning we were compelled to give immediate relief without either investigation or family assistance. In one case we gave help to an old man and woman who have two able bodied sons in Portsmouth who are able to support their old parents but will not unless we go after them with a "club". In another case a sick mother with a sick baby was helped because we could not locate her husband who is making $15 a week and spending it on another woman.

In a third case this morning we found a family of five destitute and upon the public for support while the father who has deserted is across the river. The Bureau is now in the midst of the organization of the Brighter Portsmouth Campaign and the Child Welfare Department and the spring recreation program must be organized within the next ten days.

Young ladies who are interested in this opportunity to get real training and practical experience in social work are requested to call the Bureau tonight after 6 o'clock. Phone number 468.

SELLS CHILD'S SHOES TO GET MONEY WITH WHICH TO BUY BOOTLEG WHISKEY; MAYOR LONGS FOR A WHIPPING POST

"A man who would take his child's only pair of shoes and take food from the kitchen to sell for the purpose of buying a pint of bootleg whiskey, ought to be more ashamed of himself than I can express," declared Mayor H. H. Kaps Monday in police court when arraigning George Fletcher, charged with taking a pair of shoes from his child.

"A whipping post would be entirely too mild a punishment for you," Fletcher, according to the evidence submitted, took his child's shoes and 20 eggs and sold them Sunday morning to a second hand dealer on Market street for $1.20.

A fine of $25 and costs was assessed against Fletcher and he was ordered locked up until he saw fit to furnish the police with the name of the man who sold him the whiskey.

Daniel Belcher was fined $10 on a charge of becoming drunk and visiting the Arcana Saturday night. The fine was suspended.

Men Welcome

Mother's Friend

The husband is often worried over the condition of his wife during the period of expectancy. The thought that he is helpless to relieve her physical suffering and discomfort causes him great distress.

"Mother's Friend" is a safe external lubricant which penetrates to the fine network of nerves beneath the skin of the child. It has a marked tendency to relieve the muscular strain to which these broad, flat abdominal muscles are subjected.

If husbands will secure for the expectant mother a bottle of "Mother's Friend" from their druggists, they will find that they have added to a very great degree in relieving much of the discomfort during pregnancy and pain at the crisis.

The mother should apply "Mother's Friend" every night and morning, right up until the time of giving birth to the child. By doing so, the mother will find that the mother will experience much less pain.

Every mother should have the free book prepared for users of "Mother's Friend." It concerns her health and well-being during and after the crisis. Write to Brinfield Regulator Company, Dept. D-202, Atlanta, Ga. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today.

Senatorial Courtesy.

Senatorial courtesy is a term applied to a custom which has grown up in the senate of not enforcing any rules or regulations looking to the closing of debate, the senate as a whole, giving to each senator practically the right to discuss any question before the senate as long as he wants to. In the term has, however, been extended not only to the courtesy of debate, but to denote the general tendency in the senate, irrespective of political differences, for the senators to be very loathly disposed to pet measures and projects of their fellows. By reason of senatorial courtesy there is no closure in debate.

Submits Report On Commission Form Of Government To Trade Board

A report on the commission form of government, as he saw it at Dayton, has been submitted to the board of trade by George W. Vandervort, city councilman. Mr. Vandervort, who is interested in this type of municipal management, while attending a convention decided to investigate and then submit a report. The report is:

To the Directors of Board of Trade, City.

Gentlemen: While in the city of Dayton last week the writer made an investigation of the commission-manager form of government, and wish to outline briefly to you the mode of this government and what it has accomplished for this city.

The commission-manager form of government Dayton is now using consists, first, "The People" with the initiative-referendum-recall-protest. They elect a city commission consisting of five members, the one receiving the largest vote is mayor and chairman. This commission employs a clerk of commission, civil service board, (three members), and for the continuous audit, city of plan board, (three members), and a city manager. The city manager employs a director department of finance, director department of welfare, director department of service, director department of safety, director department of law. The commission meets every Wednesday morning with the city manager. This meeting is conducted the same as the board of directors meeting of any corporation. At the one which the writer attended last Wednesday morning they passed four ordinances, four resolutions, and read five ordinances for the second reading. This is an open meeting at which any citizen may be present. Several people were there with complaints.

These were listened to carefully and were promptly acted upon. In 1915 there were fifty-two of these meetings held and nineteen special meetings, and seventy-two conferences were called.

Below are a few facts and figures which will show the value of this form of government, which was started in Dayton in 1913:

In 1914 the manager was faced with the same proposition that most Ohio cities are now facing, a shortage in the tax revenues of one hundred and sixty-seven thousand dollars to meet the need of expenses of the municipality. This was one of the gravest financial crises in the beginning of the young government. To meet this the manager cut the estimated expenses of the city forty-five thousand dollars. In 1915 he cut the estimated expenses seventy thousand dollars. Business men who were interviewed said that the manager earned all that the city of Dayton paid him for the one job alone, that of compiling the annual tax budget, and the annual appropriation budget, the fixing of these two budgets being the most vital operation in the affairs of any municipal government. It naturally consumes a great period of time, study and forethought. Another saving that has been made is the collection of garbage, and the building of a garbage reduction plant. This was built in 1915. In 1912 it cost $2.60 per ton to collect the garbage, in 1913 $2.49, in 1914 $1.82, in 1915 $1.60. The sales of the bi-product of this plant is now paying for the operating, interest on the investment, depreciation, and leaving a substantial profit. The operating expenses of the water works has been cut thirty-two thousand dollars in comparison with 1914. A paymaster is employed who travels around to the various places where labor is working, instead of having the laborers come to the treasurer's office. They claim a saving in this of thirteen hundred and fifty dollars. The city manager, by doing the same as our manufacturers and merchants all over the country have done the past two years, placing orders on the advancing market, has saved the following: $15,000 on the purchase of steel, $4,000 on gasoline, $5,300 on cement, $1,000 on sewer pipe. The city of Dayton is paying today 9c per gallon for gasoline, due to the foresight of their manager in buying.

The least thing this government is doing is the saving of the city money. The department of public welfare is the department of which the Dayton citizens seem to be the proudest. Some of the results achieved by this department are: The death rate was reduced from 15.7 in 1913 to 13.7 in 1914 and 13.007 in 1915. Infant mortality was reduced from 124 per thousand in 1913 to 95.9 in 1914 and 87.2 in 1915. This department established municipal lodging houses, municipal employment bureaus, public parks, legal aid, public recreations and a correctional institution. Results from this social welfare department has greatly changed the conditions of Dayton.

One of the best things noticed by a citizen of Portsmouth was the elimination of politics from the municipal government.

The employees of the police and fire department are not changed every two or four years, giving positions according to the number of votes they can swing, but are chosen for efficiency only. Village politics are all forgotten.

We think a thorough investigation of this government should be made by your board, and the people be given an opportunity to express themselves whether it should be adopted for our city. Much valuable information can be obtained from Dayton's method, as well as a number of other cities in the United States which is now using this form of government.

Mr. J. M. Switzer, a member of commission of Dayton, has an illustrated lecture on manager form of government, which he will gladly come and give to people of this city, and demonstrate with pictures, facts and figures, three things which cannot be disputed, the value of this form of government.

Respectfully submitted,
G. W. VANDERVORT.

Not Mailed First But God's Love To Conquer

"Overcome evil in the good" was the epigram that threaded its way through an unusual sermon delivered by Dr. C. E. Chandler, pastor of the Bigelow Methodist church Sunday evening, the theme of which was "The New Testament."

"The mailed fists" declared would not conquer the world "but His (God's) is the way by which this world is to be conquered. Truth triumphs over falsehood and love overthrows hate."

"We must work for religion and grasp the good. Abhor evil. At the front door meet it with iron. At the back door meet it with strength and at the window, meet it with cannon. Relegate it to the scrap heap."

A striking parallel was drawn to illustrate the epigram "Overcome Evil in the Good." A bullet, the minister said, from a powerful rifle would penetrate many thicknesses of oak and steel. But a barricade of snow effectively stopped the progress of the bullet. The tiny white flakes embrace the bullet and grasp it and "the bullet falls dead." In concluding, Dr. Chandler said: "If you keep on praying you can cut a deep channel from the lake of God's love clear down to the heart of man."

Two hundred children and older folk from the First Christian and Grandview Avenue Christian, German Evangelical, Second, Central and First Presbyterian churches assembled Sunday afternoon in the Sunday school auditorium of the First Presbyterian church for the Junior Christian Endeavor rally. Miss Pearl M. Smith, Junior and Intermediate secretary and field worker, talked to the children. Tonight she will address a mass meeting of young people in the Central Presbyterian church at 7:30. This meeting will enclose the three day conference and rally of Scioto County C. E. workers. Miss Smith, whose office is in Columbus, is employed by the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union.

Ohio is the only state having a paid worker in charge of the Junior and Intermediate branches of the world.

Miss Bertha Jewett, superintendent of the First Presbyterian Juniors, presided and Lloyd Craden and John Bickham lead in prayer.

Miss Smith gained the affections of the youngsters, who ranged from five and six years up, by showing them a novel way of shaking hands with her. She clasped both hands and raised them up high asking each child to do the same. All shook hands vigorously for a moment. Miss Smith then asked all children to say their first name when she had counted three, and thus all were duly introduced.

She said that if all the Juniors in Ohio would form a parade it would be 15 miles long.

The children were delighted with her description of a Junior Christian Endeavor automobile which they pretended to build.

Campaign To Be Waged Until All Churches Have Junior Societies

(By Louise Griswold)

Two hundred children and older folk from the First Christian and Grandview Avenue Christian, German Evangelical, Second, Central and First Presbyterian churches assembled Sunday afternoon in the Sunday school auditorium of the First Presbyterian church for the Junior Christian Endeavor rally. Miss Pearl M. Smith, Junior and Intermediate secretary and field worker, talked to the children. Tonight she will address a mass meeting of young people in the Central Presbyterian church at 7:30. This meeting will enclose the three day conference and rally of Scioto County C. E. workers. Miss Smith, whose office is in Columbus, is employed by the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union.

Ohio is the only state having a paid worker in charge of the Junior and Intermediate branches of the world.

Miss Bertha Jewett, superintendent of the First Presbyterian Juniors, presided and Lloyd Craden and John Bickham lead in prayer.

Miss Smith gained the affections of the youngsters, who ranged from five and six years up, by showing them a novel way of shaking hands with her. She clasped both hands and raised them up high asking each child to do the same. All shook hands vigorously for a moment. Miss Smith then asked all children to say their first name when she had counted three, and thus all were duly introduced.

She said that if all the Juniors in Ohio would form a parade it would be 15 miles long.

The children were delighted with her description of a Junior Christian Endeavor automobile which they pretended to build.

His wheels, she said, were the prayer meeting committee, the missionary committee, the look-out committee and the social committee. No spokes should be missing, that is, all members of committees should be active. The body of the machine is the whole organization and the top which protects it, is God's loving care. The engine which makes it run is the heart of every boy and girl, and the oil is prayer.

The steering wheel is a good president; the brake, the Junior pledge; and the horn is the Junior pin. Gasoline is the work. Lights are the missionary activities, and the crank is the Junior superintendent. Miss Smith urged all children to be self-starters, and not have to be cranked up.

At the Saturday evening conference of Christian Endeavor workers of the city, in the First Christian church, Harry Smith, Scioto county's Christian Endeavor superintendent, presided.

Miss Smith declared that she would not stop until all the churches in Scioto county have Junior and Intermediate societies.

"The Junior work has as large a place in religious training as the Sunday school, but the Sunday school should come first," she said.

It is impracticable to have a division of Juniors calling those from five to seven years, Sunshine Juniors. Miss Smith suggested that children should not be admitted to the Junior society until seven years. It should include children from seven up to 13 or 14 years. Older than that should be in the Intermediate society until they are admitted to the Senior society.

"The Junior superintendent should be well supplied with card board, paints and crayons. Boys and girls would work more effi-

Merchants Making Preparations For Spring Opening Day, Thursday

Masterpieces of American genius in all branches of industry will be displayed by the stores of the city this week, at the Spring opening.

"Spring Opening Day" comes Thursday evening, March 15. And every store in the city, north, east, south and west, will be in gala array for the inspection of the men and women, boys and girls.

Promptly at an hour designated by the committee in charge, shrill blasts of steam sirens will formally open what is predicted to be one of the greatest events ever held by the local merchants.

Big show windows, which have been enshrined for several days, hiding the wonders of spring creations and the work of expert window-trimmers, will be opened to the gaze of the public.

The River City band has been engaged to furnish music for the first evening. All of the stores will remain open until nine o'clock.

Radiant with the splendors of spring merchandise, the stores will to take care of unusual crowds and extra clerks will be ready to take care of every purchaser.

The Business Men's Association has asked every merchant in the city to co-operate in making this a genuine Portsmouth success—the kind that people remember with pleasure.

And from reports, the merchants are according their hearty support to the "Spring Opening" and "Selling Days."

RESIDENTS STARTLED BY EXPLOSION

There was an explosion of a mysterious character Sunday afternoon, somewhere in the block between Third and Fourth streets and Chillicothe and Gay streets.

Residents in this section do not know anything about it. A crowd of men attracted to that spot shortly after the explosion, failed to find anything. Police Chief

Henry Clark and a squad of police did not discover the source of the explosion. There were no automobiles around at the time.

Many theories have been advanced. Some claim that it was a sewer explosion. Others believe that it was an automobile tire. Yet nothing could be found that would indicate there had been an explosion.

DETECTIVES AT WORK IN $100,000 SUIT

Ironton, March 12—A day or two ago a couple of private detectives were working in Ironton so far as could be learned these detectives were looking up the record of a former Ironton citizen whose name was not disclosed.

From all that could be learned, their mission here could be connected with the sensational suit filed in the U. S. courts at Cincinnati a few days ago by Attorney George Shepard, of Portsmouth as the next friend of Lorena Ball of that city, in which damages to the amount of $100,000 were asked of Dr. Harry C. Jones, who lives at Logan, W. Va. for ruining the character of the Ball girl.

Jones is now under indictment in the Scioto county courts for failure to provide for the child of Lorena Ball and the case is set for trial about the middle of April. Jones the defendant in the case has had private detectives in Portsmouth working on the case, and it is presumed that these detectives are the same ones who were in Portsmouth.

Johnson and Jones of this city are attorneys for plaintiff in the case and Judge A. Z. Blair of Portsmouth is attorney for Jones. The act which Jones is alleged to have committed in West Virginia, the Balls moving to Portsmouth some time ago.

CAN'T WAIT FOR HIS MEALS NOW

Railroad Man Telling All His Friends What Tanlac Did.

"NEVER FELT SO GOOD"

J. A. Hughes, a pump engineer for the C. & O. Railway, who lives in Dover, Ky., never misses a meal these days. He says it is such a novelty for him to be able to eat heartily and in comfort that he can't help telling about it.

"I feel strong and hearty now, but I will never forget the troubles I had before I tried Tanlac."

"I began taking Tanlac after I had tried almost everything else, without benefit. Almost at once I was relieved of bloating, pain, shortness of breath, palpitation, sour stomach and headache. I often had been troubled from dizzy spells and they have left me, too. I used to have a tired, droopy feeling all day long but I don't feel that way now."

"Two bottles of Tanlac were enough to put me back in good shape. My nerves are as steady as steel. I feel like a different person since I can sleep sound at night. I get up in the morning feeling refreshed and ready for a hot breakfast."

"I often tried to figure out why Tanlac gave me such wonderful relief, and I am of the belief that it is because Tanlac isn't full of chemicals that work injury to the system."

If you are not feeling right get Tanlac today. Delay in health matters is dangerous.

What Will Portsmouth Be Like In Ten Years?

Ten years hence will there be traction lines up the Scioto valley, along the right of way of which hundreds of employees of Portsmouth's industries, will live. And will the Norfolk and Western railroad be electrified with four tracks to Columbus by that time? How many churches will there be? How about the civic spirit? How about the City Beautiful?

These are some of the many things that you can decide to your own satisfaction, if you take part in the story contest, which the Bureau of Community Service has inaugurated.

The contest closed March 21. It is open to every man, woman, boy and girl in the city. The rules are simple. The subject is "What Will Portsmouth Be Like In Ten Years." It must not be less than 200 words and not more than 1000 words in length. Your story should be written on one side of the paper only and mailed to the Daily Times.

Sharpen up the pencil, select several sheets of paper and write down your predictions. Prizes worth while are to be awarded April 1. The best stories will be selected and published in The Times.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Patrol Leaders' Association

The Patrol Leaders' Association of Scioto County held their annual congress Saturday morning at Boy Scout Headquarters. The following new officers were elected for the coming year: Marion Garrison, President; James Scott, Vice-President; Richard Knost, Secretary; Richard Hopkins, Treasurer.

Splendid addresses were delivered during the morning and afternoon sessions by patrol leaders who have gone to the top in scouting. In these short addresses they told how the other 7 boys in the patrol could be handled successfully and efficiently. James Scott spoke first on the subject, "Patrol Efficiency." A lively discussion followed. Marion Garrison gave the second address on the successful patrol system as carried out by Troop 2, the largest Boy Scout troop in Portsmouth. Harold Bierly led a discussion on the subject: "Are Patrol Meetings Necessary?" The last address of the morning was a strong one, as well as inspiring, by Richard Knost, of Troop 5, his subject being: "The Sort of Fellow a Patrol Leader Should Be." It is certain that every boy in the audience felt at the close of this splendid heart-to-heart talk that the position of patrol leader was one of unusual responsibility.

One of the most interesting discussions of the morning was the new mob-station scheme of local scouts, which makes it possible to mobilize 200 scouts in 45 minutes for civic service. This idea originated four years ago after the flood, but was not taken up seriously until the last few days.

The afternoon session of the Congress began promptly at 1:00 o'clock. The first thing on the program was the installation of the new officers. Patrol Instruction was the chief theme of the afternoon session, Norris Davis, of Troop 8, talking on the importance of having First Class Scouts as patrol instructors and leaders. He was followed by Richard Hopkins, of Troop 1, who gave a brief but helpful talk, in which he urged that all instruction be given in the troop by patrol leaders, relieving the Scoutmaster of much detail work.

The Association then adjourned to the First Presbyterian Gymnasium, where 2 fast basketball games, inter-troop affairs were played. In the first game Troop 3 defeated Troop 2 decisively by the score of 12 to 1. Mendel was the "big work" for the Troop Eighters with Norris Davis running him a close second. The line-up:

Troop 3 Positions Troop 2
Davis ..... R.P. .... Chick
Mendel ..... L.F. .... Mills
Cropper ..... O. .... Millard
Marsh ..... R.G. .... Graf
J. Scott ..... J.G. .... Monroe

In the second game Troop 1 simply walked all over the new troop from the East End, Troop 14. It was a case of the daddy beating the child. Hopkins was the speed boy for old troop 1, and the youngsters found it impossible to stop him. The final score was: Troop 1, 20; Troop 14, 6.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Mrs. Anna Moore Found Nerv-Worth To Be A Friend Indeed

This statement a deep impression on fellow sufferers a few weeks ago. It's well worth repeating:

Fisher & Streich pharmacy—I have been troubled with catarrh of the throat for 15 years. My neck would swell up so I could hardly get my breath. At night my heart bothered me so I had to sit up to get relief. I also had so much trouble with my stomach.

I purchased one bottle of Nerv-Worth at your store and after taking it I can eat anything I want. My catarrhal trouble is improved so it does not bother me. I can sleep well and feel fine. I am purchasing more Nerv-Worth today and am recommending it to my friends.

Before taking Nerv-Worth I could not walk down town. Now I walk down and back home without any trouble.

(MRS.) ANNA MOORE.

1219 Eighteenth Street.

Your dollar back at the Fisher & Streich pharmacy if Nerv-Worth does not overcome your nervous ills. Ask at this store for the new Nerv-Worth Laxative Tablets. Wonderfully good for liver and bowels. Especially valuable in connection with Nerv-Worth the tonic.

MAYOR KAPS WILL KEEP TAB ON JUNK MEN TO GET TRUE REPORT

Private detectives are to be engaged by the city authorities to check up junk dealers. This was announced in police court Monday by Mayor H. H. Kaps.

R. Bloomfield, a North End junk dealer, who claims he is an agent for J. Quasser, was arraigned on a charge of buying junk from minors. He pleaded not guilty. H. Fisher and George Bragg, two employees of the D. Labold company, declared that they had seen children enter Bloomfield's place with junk and come out empty-handed.

Neither of the witnesses could identify the children. Mayor Kaps told Bloomfield that the evidence was not sufficient to hold him, but warned him to be careful in the future. He said that Quasser had appeared in court and denied that Bloomfield was an agent of his.

Certain officers went to a junk shop in the city last Saturday and was present when some brass was sold. This brass was not listed on the report which was filed Monday morning.

"Here is one report that states that $5 worth of stuff was purchased during the day. You cannot tell me that a man can make money by buying such a small amount of stuff a day. This report does not list the sale of brass made Saturday. I'll tell you what we are going to do. We are going to have correct reports sent in this office, if the city has to engage some private detectives to do it."

Bloomfield was ordered to submit a daily report. The first dealer caught buying junk from minors will be fined the maximum amount; the mayor declared, which is $500.

AN AGED COUPLE

Tell How They Regained Strength and Vigor

Steubenville, Ohio—"My husband is 79 years old and I am 75 years of age and we owe our good health to Vinol, the greatest strength creator and medicine there is. When either one of us get into a weakened, run-down condition, Vinol has never failed to build us up and restore strength. We have often said we would not be living now were it not for Vinol."

—Mary A. Lee.

The reason Vinol is so efficient in building up strength for weakened, feeble old people is because it contains beef and cod liver peptides, iron and manganese, phosphates and glycerophosphates, the most successful tonics known.

We wish every person in Portsmouth who is suffering from a weakened, run-down, devitalized condition would try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to benefit.

THE BANANA AS A SUBSTITUTE

Personally the matter doesn't concern us, as we seldom eat what has come to be regarded well nigh the staff of life, the potato, but it is interesting to learn an excellent substitute has been found for it in the banana. To properly achieve its end as a substitute the fruit must be cooked, which is a novelty in itself as the banana is commonly regarded. In preparation it must be peeled in moderately warm water and then boiled for twenty-five minutes, when it becomes mealy. Served warm and seasoned with melted butter, salt and pepper it makes quite a delectable alias for the potato. The food value of ten dozen medium sized bananas is equal to three pecks of potatoes and the cost is considerably less. We advise the housekeeper to try cooking the bananas. She must not, however, invite us to dine on them. We had to educate a taste for them by a severe fast, and we'll be switched before we allow any more experiments to be tried on us with them.

Speaking of foods, if a family wishes to economize thereon we would suggest and there is nothing either original or new in the suggestion, that it use rice more commonly. Rice is beyond question the most wholesome of all edibles and in nutrition, quantity for quantity, equal to all and superior to most. It can be prepared in an infinite variety of ways and be made to adorn as well as cheapen the table. The best thing of all about it though is, that in its simpler forms of cooking not even the worst cook can spoil it seriously.

How do rumors start? We would like to know for instance where that wild-eyed one of Sunday morning to the effect that The Times had received word that there had been a cloudburst up the river and a disastrous flood was due, had its inception? It certainly got a start somewhere, but why? Did the queer, distorted mind of some individual find enjoyment in sending a thrill over the town? Was it just pure devilishness or malice, or just thoughtlessness on the part of the person who first told it, who coined it from his imagination? We would like to know, indeed we would. And for the benefit of the public we wish to state that The Times will bulletin any important information over its signature, or will issue extras if the character of the news warrants it.

Mighty foolish, mighty wasteful, is what we call the proposal to pay one thousand dollars of the people's money for a state anthem or song. A resolution to take one thousand dollars out in the square at the capital and burn it to slow music would be about as sensible, and about as productive of results. We will have a few thousand manuscripts submitted, a committee will sit in judgment and then it will select something that will be forgotten the next day, that is forgotten by all but the taxpayers who have to dig down in their jeans and pay the bill. It is not in this way that really worth while songs and anthems are produced. They come as the inspiration of genius, not as a cash to order transaction. We hope the governor will veto the bill if it gets to him.

Piketon may be one of those towns that has to be pointed out as you whiz through it, but all the same it now has two weekly newspapers fighting for supremacy. The Tribune is the name of the newcomer which has entered the field so long occupied by the Republican. Local scraps are said to be back of the rivalry but at that it is hard to see wherein one, let alone two papers can exist in Piketon. Scrappers may find it an easy way however to pay off ranking scores and feel it is money well spent.

We are asked many times a day, "Do you think there will be war?" Of course we do not know anything more about it than any one else. Probably the president himself could not answer that question now. But the atmosphere at Washington is that war is just around the corner and preparations are being made on all sides for the conflict, though all are earnestly hoping something will develop to avoid actual conflict.

Since there is no other way of solving the mystery we suggest that that explosion that startled the down-town section Sunday afternoon be laid to the door of a German spy.

We made a run out to New Boston, Saturday, and came back with the conviction that the auto was born of an unrecognized necessity and not of luxury and recreation. The street car was crowded and the passing automobiles suggested that if we were not for them the railway would have a problem in handling all the traffic offering.

Sounded rather summery Sunday to hear the thunder and see the lightning, didn't it now?

In its last days the legislature got quite a habit of rejecting a measure one day and then turning round and passing it the next. There is no assurance forthcoming that its second thought was any-wise better than the first.

At least in having the grip Woodrow Wilson shows he is thoroughly human and democratic.

Just might as well be exact about it. That Ohio composition, for which one thousand dollars reward is to be offered, is not to be a song, or a poem merely, but an anthem, which is supposedly a stately hymn, both in music and verse.

IT'S ESSENTIALLY THE SAME OLD WORLD IT HAS ALWAYS BEEN

EVERY LITTLE HELPS

The Frisco railroad will give the unused portions of its more than five thousand miles of right-of-way to all persons desiring to cultivate the same. The average width of the way, possible to such usage is over fifty feet. Of course, much is not susceptible to cultivation, owing to remoteness and ruggedness, but there would be more than a little, that under right handling would materially increase normal production.

It may be that we may by acute experience, learn before a great while that every little bit helps. The Prussian food controller, speaking officially, Thursday, stated the nation was suffering from a serious food shortage; caused more by a partial failure of crops and fraudulent distribution thereof, than from any other conditions. Warning may well be taken from his words. It is the universal hope that this country may not be plunged into hostilities; but if war should come to her door she would need all her resources and even extra production would be desirable. So the call to the country is for more and better farming. There is no possibility of over production for a year, even should general peace come for then the furnished would call for more from this granary of the world and conditions would make it easier to supply demands. Dwelling on it for a moment one can easily conceive something of the appalling waste in food supplies that would ensue if the armies were disbanded. In a few sections there would be a riot and profligacy of plenty, in many an actual want, because the returning hosts would make a further consumption where there was already scantiness.

Are you going to banish the tomato cans from the back yard and replace them with a little garden this spring?

We have a faint suspicion from their antics that those South American countries have not yet learned to love us. It may be their fault, but more likely it is ours.

The newspapers can't do everything and there are no evidences apparent that they have dismembered Mr. Wilson's cabinet, hard as they set about the job.

As published the bureau of community service campaign for a brighter Portsmouth is seen to be ambitious, but we can do all it calls for and more if only each one will contribute his mite.

There is such a thing as honor among thieves. A Tennessee tailor, who had sold a negro a stolen piano, went back to the church from which he had stolen the instrument and carried away the stool because the negro insisted it was a part of the purchase.

As a sarcastic contemporary keeps tab on them the only time some men are on time is when it is time to quit work.

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY.
O.O. MEINTYRE.

New York, March 12.—As Samuel Peys would record in his diary: Up early and by train to William Penn's city, where I breakfast at the Bellevue-Stratford and am fascinated by a gentleman at an opposite table with a drooping mustache eating hot bullion with a resounding echo, albeit he seemed absolutely unconscious of the merriment caused by his antics. Chaplin methought could get much material from this patron.

For a call on O. Crookard from St. Paul and we journey to Gotham together and he paid the fare, although I made a feeble effort toward renoustrating. Hurry home to change clothes to attend the wedding of It. Brinkerhoff, the sketched, and find a jolly crowd and accompany the bride and groom to the steamer sailing for Havana.

For a walk through the town and at home find two letters. One from J. Price, who tells me of the gray time he is having at the Wagon-Lits in Peking, China, and with all the rumors abroad I wished I might be with him. And the other letter from a reader who inquires: "Doesn't Samuel Peys ever work?" and I write to him explaining that this diary is only written once a week—on the day that I forswear labor, but on the other six days I am so occupied that my wife, poor wretch, says that I am a nuisance.

In the evening to a party where I meet Miss Ruth Roland, the cinema play-actress, and she tells me of her love for the great West and we dance together until J. Duffy, the editor, and her escort, swooled at me like the jealous dolt that he is. And Miss Roland seemed not at all surprised that I had never seen her on the screen or never heard of her and made me feel comfortable, which struck me as being far different from the vanity one finds among player folk. And so home and to bed.

Another one of those recherché, devil-may-care emporiums where food, ideas and cigarette smoke combine to make eating a delicious delight, has opened in Greenwich village. It is called the Purple Pup. As a stroke of genius the piece de resistance at the first meal was an individual Weinerwurst tied in purple ribbon with a fetching bow.

The reason for the name—but by no means the restaurant—is the piece

Sal Skinner's Fleas
Sal Skinner had a poodle dog Just loaded down with fleas; She wondered off from whence they came To bite her on the knees. They went with her to church one day— The preacher's name was Hatch Who kept on preaching just the same, And watched Sal Skinner scratch. Her hand it flew from knee to knee, You bet, she had to jump! She squirmed about from side to side, The fleas kept on the jump. The text on which the preacher spoke, To her was all a blank, For she had trouble of her own— The fleas were on the flank. But Sal was energetic sure, She shook them from her frame; Until the most of them had skipped To hunt for other game. Miss Sally didn't note the hour Or how the moments flew: The lively fleas just humped themselves To almost every pew. The sleepy members soon awoke, Their fingers reached the spot Where Mr. Flea got in his work— All else was soon forgot. The congregation, young and old, Were worked up to the scratch; In fact, the choir and deacons too Were joined by Preacher Hatch. The sermon soon came to a close, The preacher said, "Let's pray," And after which they sang a hymn. I've heard some people say The preacher, he got slightly mixed; He read like all-fired sin: "Just as I am—without one flea." Which caused some folks to grin. The benediction was pronounced, The services were through; And some were even heard to breathe A soft, faint "Hallelu." Sal Skinner started for her home, Along a cross-cut path. Her "Glad Rags" doffed in double quick And took a shower bath. The fleas were taken by surprise, But quickly formed in line; And hid themselves as best they could Along Sal Skinner's spine. But soon their energy they lost And slipped down off her hide; They shot the clutes and each flea sang: "We're drifting with the tide." —Tom J. Nicholl, Oak Harbor, Ill.

New Castle, Ind., March 12.—With twenty-six bodies already recovered, search continued today for further dead in the wake of the cyclone which swept down on this city late yesterday, destroying 500 homes and causing property damage of more than one million dollars. Estimates were that from ten to twenty bodies were still in the ruins.

Manufacturing plants were closed while the workmen aided three companies of militia and 100 special policemen in keeping guard and clearing up the debris, strewn over a district two and a half miles wide and fifteen miles long, through the residence district of the city and on into a prosperous farming country.

Fifty physicians and nurses from neighboring towns took care of the wounded in improvised hospitals. Fifty were seriously injured and 100 or more slightly hurt. Branch emergency hospitals were established at the Elk's home and a fire station.

Marital law existed in the stricken district. No one was permitted to pass through except on passes from the mayor, or militia officers.

Several reports of looting were received but no one was held by the police or troops.

Women and children in the hundreds of homeless families were taken care of by those more fortunate, while the men gathered around little camp fires on street corners watching what was left of their property and waiting for the break of day to renew their hunt for the missing.

At the hospitals relatives aided the nurses and doctors in caring for the injured. Ruth Day, 18, who lost her three little sisters and a brother, and injured herself, sat beside the bedside of her mother during the long night hoping to save the one other member of the family still alive.

The mother has little chance for recovery.

Greatest suffering was reported during the night. It was cold and no fires were allowed in the houses on account of danger of starting a conflagration. Lights were out and no water was procurable, as the water mains had burst.

Relief poured into the city from every quarter today. Most of the cities of the state offered aid. A relief committee was formed consisting of John W. Bowers, New Castle; Wm. Goodrich, Winchester, brother of Governor Goodrich; H. S. Maddy of Muncie; Walter Chambers and George Elliott, both of New Castle.

The committee today sent out an appeal for cash donations. Hundreds of families, who lost practically everything, will need money to get back on their feet again, they stated.

J. Lab Watkins, mayor, lost everything but his clothes. His home was destroyed and a pocket-book containing $205 blown away.

The loss will be exceptionally heavy because few places carried insurance and was over like a flash, cyclone insurance.

The storm broke without warning from two seconds to a minute, according to various estimates. It was a typical Kansas twister with a long funnel shaped cloud which swept down from the northeast.

It struck the Indiana rolling mills first, leveling the large plant as if it had been raked with a dozen 42 centimetre guns. The better residence district of the city was next to be hit. Houses costing as high as $50,000 were a mass of ruins in an instant. Miraculous escapes from death were reported when families, huddled in basements, had whole houses swept off over their heads. Houses were jammed, one against another and in one case a garage and automobile were set down in the middle of a home.

The storm continued, through the city, striking the homes of the working men where most of the deaths were caused. Here a district half a mile wide and a mile-long was swept clean. Not a house was left standing. That there were not more deaths was attributed to the fact that up until the time the storm broke, the day was pleasant and many families were downtown or out walking.

After leaving the city the storm destroyed many farms for a 12-mile stretch. Two farm hands lost their lives when a barn was blown down. Two small sons of Ernest Gray, a farmer, were killed.

Ora Smith was painting a barn door when it was blown off. He was carried along with the door about 200 yards and landed in a pond. He cannot recover.

Not knowing the sweep of the storm, a terrific rain poured down for half an hour. Several fires started but the rain aided volunteer workers in extinguishing the blazes. Rescue work started immediately. Many were saved after they had been buried under the debris for half an hour or more. Searchers were attracted by their screams for aid.

Wild scenes followed in the wake of the disaster. One man with an ear torn off and with only a sheet wrapped around him ran through the city for an hour, fighting off any one who attempted to hold him. At last he was caught and taken to the hospital, where he was quieted down.

Wm. Lowrey was burned to death when he was caught in the

3 DEAD, 50 INJURED IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, O., March 12.—Three persons dead and fifty injured is the toll, police figures today give of the tornado that swept over Cincinnati last night and struck as with a hammer below the suburban residence districts of Mt. Lookout, Hyde Park, Red Bank, and East End.

One of those killed was Olmer Glenn, 82, capitalist. His house collapsed, caught fire and was destroyed. His housekeeper, Miss Daisy Holmes, was seriously injured.

The other dead are:

Matthew McCarty, killed in the wreck of his home and John Nelson, 40, market gardener, who slept in his wagon and was killed when the wind upset it.

About a dozen houses were completely destroyed. Scores were unroofed and partially wrecked.

Many families had miraculous escapes. The house occupied by George W. Snyder, his wife and son and by Charles Lamb and his wife, was turned into a pile of lumber in a second. Yet none of the occupants was more than bruised.

"We heard a sort of whistling and then the windows began falling into the rooms," said Snyder. "Then the whole house seemed to rock."

"The floor seemed to lift up. The roof flew off our heads. The furniture tumbled together. I thought it was all over with us. And then suddenly I found myself on top of a great heap of wood—all that was left of our home."

"I was surprised to notice I was alive. I looked around and was overjoyed to find my wife and son near me. We were saved by a miracle."

Dayton, O., March 12.—Four people were injured and thousands of dollars in damage done by the tornado, which swept through the western portion of Montgomery county at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The injured, Mr. and Mrs. William Eby, caught in the ruins when house was razed; neither is serious.

Allen Meyer, Brookville, crushed and lacerated by falling roof, at Miami Valley hospital here, in serious condition.

John Wyson of near Johnsville, bruised and lacerated when wagon was overturned, not serious.

Hundreds of homes were unroofed, almost one hundred houses razed and about 500 barns swept down by the tornado in its passage through Montgomery county. The tornado spent its last 123½ up ¼; Central Leather force over the west side of Dayton 94½ up 1; Marine preferred 67½ up ¼.

American Vessels To Resume Sailings

New York, March 12.—An announcement posted today in the offices of the International Mercantile Marine here, carried the information that the American line passenger and freight vessels will resume sailings. No date for the resumption of business was given. It would be a violation of a request from the navy department to give such information.

The four passenger ships, the New York, Philadelphia, St. Paul and St. Louis already are fitted with superstructure and deck plates for the mounting of guns and they could be fitted in a short time.

The Finland and the Kroonland, freight carrying vessels, will have to go through a longer process. They are newer vessels and never had guns mounted aboard.

GERARD PARTY EXPECTED ON UNITED STATES SOIL TONIGHT

BRITISH CAPTURE VILLAGE

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, March 12.—Capture of Iries by British forces brings England's fighting men to the main German defense line between Loupart Wood and Achiet Le Petit. This latest victory achieved by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig's troops was cited today as an ideal illustration of the circumstances of those trying days in Berlin, and given the chief magistrate the impressions he has formed as to Germany's purpose, her present situation and her future aims, he will remain silent.

The only public expression which the former ambassador permitted himself to make on his arrival here was that he had no knowledge of Foreign Secretary Zimmermann's plot to align Germany with Mexico and Japan until word of that conspiracy reached the Infanta Isabel by wireless as she was enroute from Corunna, Spain, to Havana.

From others of the ambassadorial party, however, it was learned that the ambassador months ago advised the United States government of Germany's intrigues in Mexico.

It rests with President Wilson whether the full story of Gerard's life in Berlin and his impressions of Germany shall be given to the American public. The envoy is known to have ready for submission to his chief a narrative of amazing details. It is possible these details may be the basis of further regulations of Germany's machinations against America—if the government seek fit.

But because of the unbearable, ceaseless activity of spies in Germany, not a paper of the American embassy's archives in Berlin now remains. The ambassador himself burned every bit of paper in the building.

Germany's food situation is serious, in the belief of all the returning Americans. The Teutons greatly lack potatoes, fats, sugar, and other basic food staples. But everyone who had lived in Berlin agreed that Germany would probably be able to eke out an existence through this summer on her present supplies of food. Then she will have to depend on this year's crops. And those crops have now only a fair promise of sufficiency.

Shortage of metals and nitrates is now interfering with Germany's manufacture of munitions, according to members of the Gerard party. Germany is being raked with a fine toothed comb for metals and more metals.

The latest requisitioning determined upon by the government was as to lead. Every ounce is being taken. The pewter tops from beer steins have gone. So have the leaden pipes to church organs.

It is in the big German cities that the food shortage is most serious. In the smaller cities the lack is not quite so apparent. For instance, Dr. W. A. Haldy, a Cleveland, Ohio, physician, who was stationed with a Red Cross unit in a hospital, located in a town of ten thousand, insisted he had no trouble in getting plenty to eat.

The annoyances to which

Havana, March 12.—By nightfall James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Berlin will devoutly rejoice in once more treading United States soil. It has been a long, long way from Berlin to Washington—nearly six thousand miles in the route traversed by the former envoy—and until the very last moment it was a journey filled with apprehension; a journey that came after wearing days of long drawn out tension in Berlin.

The ambassador and his embassy party expected to leave Havana today. Gerard will report to President Wilson at the earliest possible moment. Until he has thus personally detailed the circumstances of those trying days in Berlin, and given the chief magistrate the impressions he has formed as to Germany's purpose, her present situation and her future aims, he will remain silent.

Gerard was forced to submit before he obtained permission of German officials to leave Berlin, were not only anticipated, in part, by Gerard himself, but by Washington.

It was learned that the ambassador was specifically instructed by the state department to exercise great care and not to let petty personal insults figure in complicating the already delicate situation aroused by the diplomatic break.

Full confirmation of how passports were withheld from Americans pending the exercise of pressure on Gerard to sign a new treaty guaranteeing safety of German ships in American harbors, was given by the returning Americans.

They retold, with admiration, Gerard's firm stand and his refusal thus to acquiesce in Germany's scheme.

Those were trying days, and when at last the German government suddenly changed front and issued passports permitting departure of Gerard and his party, every one in that party looked forward and anxiously to setting foot on some soil other than German. But when the time came for embarkation from Corunna, fears and anxieties again assailed the party.

It became known that Gerard had been warned by a German friend, before he left Berlin, not to take passage for America. He was told a German submarine would surely torpedo the boat carrying him. That warning gave passengers on the Infanta Isabel days and nights of something approaching terror.

Two days out from Corunna, with passengers and crew panicky and nervous, there began to be wild rumors of periscopes sighted near the Infanta. There was not a moment that was not filled with vague dread of unwarned attack. But the "periscopes" turned out not to be periscopes. No submarines were sighted. The party relaxed its tension again.

Then just two days before Havana was reached, panic reigned again for a moment when a strange vessel was sighted. The stranger steamed rapidly toward the Infanta. It circled about the vessel cautiously and then, finally, changed her course and soon was lost on the horizon line. The vessel apparently was a British patrol boat.

Gerard is still tired and worn by his experience. His first word on reaching Havana was a request for further information as to the German plot revealed in Foreign Secretary Zimmermann's letter. The wireless had told him only the briefest outline. Gerard said he had no plans for the future, aside from looking out for his personal affairs.

Get busy, men! Don't let the fact that you are temporarily out of a job make your whole future look black. Read TIMES WANT ADS.

Ohio River Rising Slowly Here; No Cloudburst Above Reported

Local River Observer F. B. Winter Monday morning received the following message from Weather Forecaster W. C. Devaux of Cincinnati:

"Unsettled over Upper Ohio Valley tonight and Tuesday. River at Portsmouth will rise slowly. The river is falling at Cincinnati, but is rising at all other points from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh."

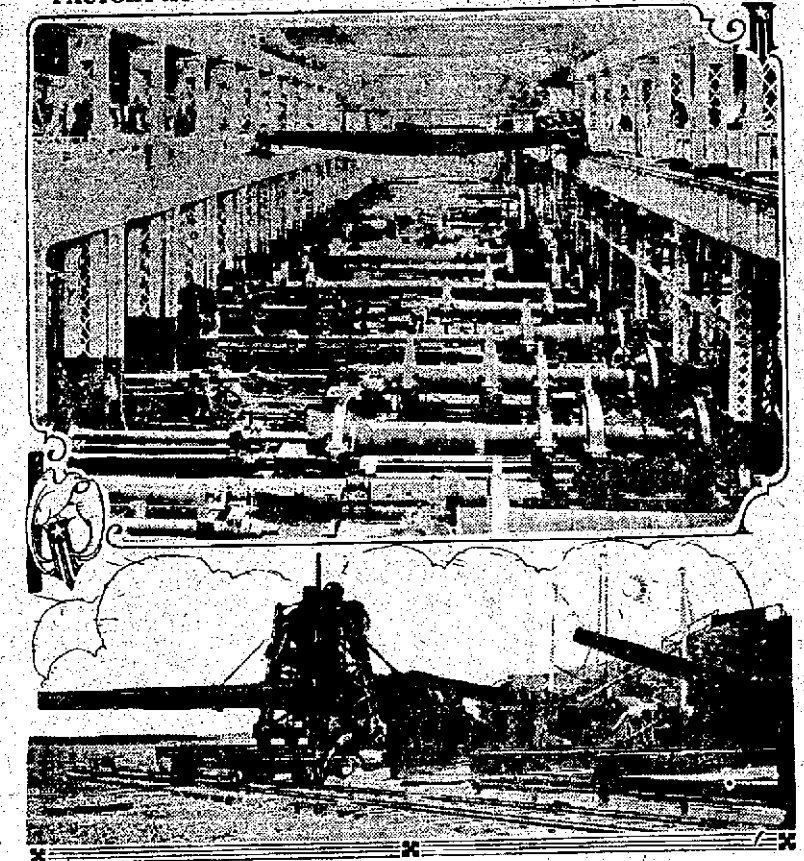

The Ohio river is again rising slowly here after receding Sunday up to 6 o'clock. Last night when it began to creep up slowly. The gauge at 7 o'clock Monday morning showed a stage of 29 feet against 39.6 at the same hour Sunday morning.

A rumor spread over the city Sunday that a cloudburst had occurred at Pittsburgh and the river would probably rise ten more feet here. Local River Observer F. B. Winter got busy yesterday as soon as he heard the rumor and he soon learned, he says, that is without foundation. A cloudburst was also reported at Wheeling and Huntington, but failed to materialize.

It was reported that the cloudburst rumor started from the fact that an employee of Contractors Sheridan and Kirk, builders of the new dam just below the city received word Sunday to prepare for a four or five foot rise in the Ohio at this point.

The Greenway will be down Tuesday for Cincinnati. The Courier passed up today for Pomeroy.

What Will Portsmouth Be Like In Ten Years?

Ten years hence will there be traction lines up the Scioto valley, along the right of way of which hundreds of employees of Portsmouth's industries will live. And will the Norfolk and Western railroad be electrified with four tracks to Columbus by that time? How many churches will there be? How about the civic spirit? How about the City Beautiful?

These are some of the many things that you can decide to your own satisfaction, if you take part in the story contest, which the Bureau of Community Service has inaugurated.

The contest closed March 21. It is open to every man, woman, boy and girl in the city. The rules are simple. The subject is "What Will Portsmouth Be Like In Ten Years." It must not be less than 200 words and not more than 1000 words in length. Your story should be written on one side of the paper only and mailed to the Daily Times.

Sharpen up the pencil, select several sheets of paper and write down your predictions. Prizes worth while are to be awarded April 1. The best stories will be selected and published in The Times.

Detectives At Work In $100,000 Suit

Ironton, March 12—A day or two ago a couple of private detectives were working in Ironton so far as could be learned these detectives were looking up the record of a former Ironton citizen whose name was not disclosed. From all that could be learned, their mission here would be connected with the sensational suit filed in the U. S. courts at Cincinnati a few days ago by Attorney George Shepard, of Portsmouth as the next friend of Lorena Ball of that city, in which damages to the amount of $100,000 were asked of Dr. Harry C. Jones, who lives at Logan, W. Va., for ruining the character of the Ball girl.

Jones is now under indictment in the Scioto county courts for failure to provide for the child of Lorena Ball and the case is set for trial about the middle of April. Jones the defendant in the case had private detectives in Portsmouth working on the case, and it is presumed that these detectives are the same ones who were in Portsmouth.

Johnson and Jones of this city are attorneys for plaintiff in the case and Judge A. Z. Blair of Portsmouth is attorney for Jones. The act which Jones is alleged to have committed in West Virginia, the Balls moving to Portsmouth some time ago.

Mayor Kaps Will Keep Tab On Junk Men To Get True Reports

Private detectives are to be engaged by the city authorities to check up junk dealers. This was announced in police court Monday by Mayor H. B. Kaps.

R. Bloomfield, a North End junk dealer, who claims he is an agent for J. Quanser, was arraigned on a charge of buying junk from minors. He pleaded not guilty. H. Fisher and George Bragg, two employees of the J. Labord company, declared that they had seen children enter Bloomfield's place with junk and come out empty-handed.

Neither of the witnesses could identify the children. Mayor Kaps told Bloomfield that the evidence was not sufficient to hold him, but warned him to be careful in the future. He said that Quanser had appeared in court and denied that Bloomfield was an agent of his.

Certain officers went to a junk shop in the city last Saturday and was present when some brass was sold. This brass was not listed on the report which was filed Monday morning.

Here is one report that states that $5 worth of stuff was purchased during the day. You cannot tell me that a man can make money by buying such a small amount of stuff a day. This report does not list the sale of brass made Saturday. I'll tell you what we are going to do. We are going to have correct reports sent in this office, if the city has to engage some private detectives to do it.

Bloomfield was ordered to submit a daily report. The first dealer caught buying junk from minors will be fined the maximum amount, the mayor declared, which is $500.

Merchants Making Preparations For Spring Opening Day, Thursday

Masterpieces of American genius in all branches of industry will be displayed by the stores of the city this week, at the Spring opening. "Spring Opening Day" comes Thursday evening, March 15. And every store in the city, north, east, south and west, will be in gala array for the inspection of the men and women, boys and girls.

Promptly at an hour designated by the committee in charge, shrill blasts of steam sirens will formally open what is predicted to be one of the greatest events ever held by the local merchants.

Big show windows, which have been enshrouded for several days, hiding the wonders of spring creations and the work of expert window-trimmers, will be opened to the gaze of the public.

The River City band has been engaged to furnish music for the first evening. All of the stores will remain open until nine o'clock.

Radiant with the splendors of spring merchandise, the stores will be a veritable fairland of pretty things.

Friday and Saturday of this week have been designated by the Business Men's Association as "Selling Days." These days will be set aside for prospective purchasers and unusual bargains are offered. Patrons from towns and cities for thirty miles around are expected to visit Portsmouth on these two days.

Merchants have made preparations to take care of unusual crowds and extra clerks will be ready to take care of every purchaser.

The Business Men's Association has asked every merchant in the city to co-operate in making this a genuine Portsmouth success—the kind that people remember with pleasure.

And from reports, the merchants are according their hearty support to the "Spring Opening" and "Selling Days."

Mr. Westlake Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock visited Dr. Chabot's office and complained that he was feeling badly. After Dr. Chabot prescribed for him Mr. Westlake returned to his home, ate supper and then retired. When a son went to his room at 3 o'clock he found his father in the embrace of death. ## Residents Startled By Big Explosion

There was an explosion of a mysterious character Sunday afternoon, somewhere in the block between Third and Fourth streets and Chillicothe and Gay streets. Residents in this section do not know anything about it. A crowd of men attracted to that spot shortly after the explosion, failed to find anything. Police Chief

Henry Clark and a squad of police did not discover the source of the explosion. There were no automobiles around at the time. Many theories have been advanced. Some claim that it was a sewer explosion. Others believe that it was an automobile tire. Yet nothing could be found that would indicate there had been an explosion.

OBITUARY

James Frederick Gildea

Death at 6:20 Saturday evening claimed James Frederick Gildea, one of Portsmouth's oldest and best known citizens, the final summons coming at his home, 621 Seventh street, after an illness of complications. Mr. Gildea was taken ill with grip in January and later developed complications.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walters, of 1052 Sixth street, went to Chillicothe Sunday afternoon, in response to a telephone message announcing the death of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Rose Spetnagel, wife of Frank Spetnagel, a well-known resident of the Ancient Metropolis. The deceased had been in poor health for over a year and only recently underwent an operation, with the hope of obtaining relief, but owing to her weakness, Mrs. Elizabeth Lind Dice

A long and useful life was closed Sunday morning at 2:30 when Mrs. Elizabeth Lind Dice, beloved wife of John Dice, Sr., a well known undertaker, passed peacefully to her final resting place, her death taking place at the family residence, 731 Second street. Six months ago Mrs. Dice was stricken with heart trouble, and her death was attributed to this disease. She had been critically ill for several weeks and relatives were prepared for the worst.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lind Dice was born in Darmstadt, Germany, April 19, 1841. She came to this country when quite young and located in Cincinnati, where she was married to Mr. Dice. To their happy union the following children were born: John Dice, Jr., Miss Anna, at home, Mrs. Harry J.
